Commanding

Welcome to Fort McCoy — a community of quality and excellence! This publication was developed to provide you with some of the most-requested information about the installation. For more information, please visit the Fort McCoy public website at <http://www.mccoy.army.mil>.

Fort McCoy's mission is to support the readiness of the force by serving as a training center and a support site for force-generation missions.

As a Total Force Training Center, Fort McCoy's primary responsibility is to support the training and readiness of military personnel and units of all branches and components of America's armed forces. Fort McCoy is a Secondary Mobilization Force Generation Installation equipped to support contingency operations as ordered.

As a world-class installation, Fort McCoy's continuing goal is to provide excellent customer service and facilities and to enhance the quality of life for all who train, work or live here. The Fort McCoy community truly is unique, with active, reserve and civilian components working together for the betterment of all facets of life at the installation.

Training Opportunities

Located in the heart of the upper Midwest, Fort McCoy is the only U.S. Army installation in Wisconsin. Fort McCoy lives its motto, "Total Force Training Center." The installation has provided support and facilities for the field and classroom training of more than 100,000 military personnel from all services each year since 1984.

The Fort McCoy complex is situated on 60,000 acres, 46,000 of which are available for maneuver and training. Fort McCoy's superb location, quality terrain and four-season climate provide units with significant year-round training opportunities.

Fort McCoy provides reserve- and active-component forces with the networked, integrated, interoperable training resources required to support the Army's training strategies with a full spectrum of facilities, ranges, and training areas.

Fort McCoy offers an environment for units to train on unified land operations across the range of military operations, allowing simultaneous conduct of individual- through brigade-level training, static live fire, maneuver live fire and force-on-force in both urban and unimproved terrain.

Fort McCoy has 30 live-fire ranges, 17 of which are automated or instrumented; 21 artillery firing points, 12 mortar firing points and an 8,000-acre impact area. Ranges supporting collective live-fire training include two multi-purpose training ranges, a convoy live-fire range, an infantry squad battle course, a multi-purpose machine-gun range, two live-fire shoot houses and a live-fire breach facility. Individual qualification ranges include facilities for modified record-fire, automated record-fire, and 10-meter/25-meter basic rifle, as well as a qualification training facility with modified record-fire and combat pistol/military police qualification-course capability.

Fort McCoy has extensive urban and rural training facilities, including two fully instrumented urban training sites; a 25-building Combined Arms Collective Training Facility (CACTF); a 20-building Collective Training Facility; and three wireless instrumented Combat in the Cities facilities with a total of 309 buildings.

These co-located facilities provide an urban training area with a continuous 2.4-kilometer capability for mounted and dismounted urban training scenarios. Three after-action review facilities support training at these sites.

To provide rural training capability, seven training areas were constructed, which include walled farm villages with planted crops, and one is instrumented with wireless technology.

An urban assault course and two live-fire shoot houses round out the urban training capability.

Specialized training sites include an Unmanned Aerial Systems strip, a semi-improved airstrip with a Seizure/Forced-Entry training site, a Search/Site Exploitation Facility, two tunnel systems, an engineer water-bridging site, and two wireless, instrumented Home Station Training Lanes (HSTL). Each 8-kilometer HSTL includes overpasses, bridges, canals, six urban villages, traffic circles, guard rails, culverts, and divided roadways.

Looking to the future, Fort McCoy is prepared to meet the training needs of the Army in the 21st century.

More than $38 million recently was invested improving and upgrading the Range Complex, including a Known Distance range, an Automated Record Fire range and the CACTE.

Fort McCoy also is “home” to a number of Army, Department of Defense and state activities that further broaden the scope of training and support available here. These include the 86th Training Division, 88th Regional Support Command, 181st Infantry Brigade, Army & Air Force Exchange Service, Army Reserve Equal Employment Opportunity Office, Aviation Company (Fixed Wing), Defense Commissary Agency, Defense Logistics Agency Disposition Services, Defense Logistics Agency Document Services, Defense Military Pay Office, Equipment Concentration Site-67, Fort McCoy Civilian Personnel Advisory Center, Logistics Readiness Center, Maneuver Area Training Equipment Site, Mission & Installation Contracting Command McCoy, Network Enterprise Center, Noncommissioned Officer Academy, Occupational Health Clinic, Recruiting Company, Regional Training Site-Maintenance, Regional Training Site-Medical, members of all branches of service — active- or reserve component, retirees and dependents — as well as Department of Defense civilian employees and contractors.

Two valid forms of identification, one of which must contain a photo, are required for issuance of an ID card. Examples of valid identification are: a driver's license; a state-issued identification card; a Social Security card, a birth certificate or a passport.

Dependents obtaining ID cards must be accompanied by their sponsor or must have in their possession a completed Department of Defense Form 1172-2 (Application for Identification Card/DEERS Enrollment) that has been signed and notarized by the sponsor.

Sponsors who have a Common Access Card may digitally sign the DD Form 1172-2 online at the RAPIDS Self Service website (<https://www.dmdc.osd.mil/self-service>) after creating an account.

Active-duty service members and service members reaching retirement age also must have orders/contracts with them when obtaining ID cards.

Adding a spouse or child to DEERS requires presentation of original documents (marriage certificate, birth certificates, driver's license and Social Security cards).

If a sponsor previously was divorced, divorce papers (and a Department of Defense Form 214 if in RETIRED status) are required.

Newcomer Orientation

Are you or your Family members starting a new assignment or a new job here?

If you are new to the Fort McCoy community, consider attending a Newcomer Orientation session and taking a tour of the post.

These monthly sessions serve to welcome new members of the Fort McCoy workforce and community and their Family members, and provide information about all the installation has to offer.

The sessions are held the second Wednesday of most months, from 8:15 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. at the Army Community Service (ACS) Center, 2111 S. 8th Ave.

Fort McCoy's ACS Relocation Readiness Program manager coordinates and leads the sessions. Representatives from many installation organizations attend to present information about activities and services each organization provides and to review important policies and regulations. An opportunity for questions and answers also is provided.

The briefings have the full support and involvement of the Fort McCoy Garrison Command

Group, with staff members participating in each session to welcome attendees, provide an overview of the installation and its history, diverse mission, vision, training role and economic impact, and talk about topics important to the installation.

Each orientation session includes a guided tour of the post.

The Fort McCoy Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation Marketing Office leads the tour, which helps attendees get a visual index of where key facilities and services are located and provides another opportunity for questions to be answered.

Newcomer Orientation attendees will be asked to complete a training evaluation form. Feedback provided helps ACS fine-tune the content and presentation of future sessions.

For more information, visit the ACS Center, 2111 S. 8th Ave., or call 608-388-3505.

GARRISON FLAGPOLE

HISTORY

Serving America's armed forces since 1909

Fort McCoy is named for Robert Bruce McCoy.

The son of a Civil War captain, McCoy was a prominent local resident who, throughout his lifetime, served as a lawyer, district attorney, county judge and mayor of Sparta, Wis.

He reached the rank of major general during his 31 years of distinguished military service, which included service in the Spanish-American War, the police action in Mexico, and World War I.

McCoy returned from the Spanish-American War with a dream. He knew that as warfare became increasingly more modern, larger and more-powerful guns would be developed, and training would be emphasized. He envisioned these changes would require larger training areas, and, by 1905, he had acquired approximately 4,000 acres of land in the Sparta area.

Maj. Samuel Allen of the 7th Field Artillery at Fort Snelling, Minn., also admired the terrain of the Sparta area for its training value. September 1905 marked the first use of the land for military purposes. McCoy invited Allen's unit to put his family's ranch to the test during 16 days of training.

As a result of the 16-day test, Allen recommended to an Army review board that a large piece of land be purchased for an artillery camp. Approximately 14,200 acres of land, including McCoy's 4,000 acres, were purchased in 1909. The resulting parcel was called the "Sparta Maneuver Tract."

The Sparta Maneuver Tract was divided approximately in half by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad. The maneuver camp situated on the northern half of the parcel was referred to as Camp Emory Upton, while that to the south was known as Camp Robinson.

In 1910, the War Department authorized $40,000 for construction and improvements to the area. The camp officially was designated Camp McCoy Nov. 19, 1926, in honor of Maj. Gen. Robert B. McCoy, who had died that same year.

Nearly 9,500 acres of land were acquired from the Department of Agriculture in 1938-39. From 1940-42, an additional 37,437 acres were acquired by a directive from the Secretary of War. These additions included construction of the large, triangular-shaped cantonment area, much of which still exists today.

The "New Camp" officially was inaugurated Aug. 30, 1942. Total cost for the construction was estimated at $30 million, and the camp capacity was set at 35,000.

Camp McCoy was used as a training facility for many World War II units, including the 2nd Infantry Division, the 76th Infantry Division and the 100th Infantry Battalion, which was comprised of Hawaii National Guardsmen of Japanese ancestry. The post also served as a prisoner-of-war and enemy-alien prison camp during this time.

Aside from temporary lulls, the installation has been in almost constant use since its founding in 1909 and has provided artillery and maneuver training opportunities for millions of military personnel from all services.

Camp McCoy was aligned under U.S. Army Forces Command July 1, 1973, and officially was re-designated as Fort McCoy Sept. 30, 1974.

In 1990-91, during Operations Desert Shield/Storm, Soldiers from 74 separate units and their equipment were deployed and redeployed at Fort McCoy.

From June 1991 through June 1992, the post also completed Operation Desert Fix, which was one of the largest reserve-component equipment demobilization/repair missions in the Army. During Desert Fix, Fort McCoy was responsible for inventorying, inspecting, repairing and returning more than a division-and-a-half's worth of equipment to 121 owning units located throughout a nine-state area.

The 1990s ushered in the first great construction growth experienced at the post since the construction of the cantonment area in 1942.

From 1990 to the present day, new construction projects have served to modernize the post's infrastructure, facilities and training areas. The hundreds of millions of dollars invested in the post have benefitted Fort McCoy as well the local economy, with the majority of the new construction contracts having been awarded to regional firms.

Training levels at Fort McCoy reached record proportions in fiscal year 2000, with 149,432 personnel participating. The installation has provided support and facilities for the training of more than 100,000 personnel annually since 1984.

Fort McCoy was aligned under the U.S. Army Reserve Command in 1993.

Fort McCoy was realigned under what is now known as the Installation Management Command in 2002.

Today, Fort McCoy's primary mission is to support the readiness of the force by serving as a training center and a support site for power-projection missions.

The installation has served in a continuing capacity as an Army power-projection site by processing and preparing military personnel for duty in overseas contingency operations.

From Sept. 11, 2001 through Dec. 30, 2011, 140,197 military personnel from 2,416 units mobilized or demobilized at Fort McCoy during the installation's efforts to support the Global War on Terror.

Today the post provides full-scale support to its customers at each juncture of its training triad — Transient, Institutional and Exercise.

(For more photographs and information on Fort McCoy's history, please see "Fort McCoy History & Heritage," which is available on the installation or online at <http://www.mccoy.army.mil/AboutUs/History/FMCHistHrtg.pdf>.)

Downhill skiers and snowboarders of all skill levels will find four groomed and lighted ski runs — the longest exceeding 1,300 feet — equipped with a self-loading T-bar lift. The vertical drop of the slope is more than 185 feet.

A terrain park also is available to snowboarders.

The facility is recognized by the National Ski Patrol, and patrol members monitor activity on the slopes to promote safety and to attend to any injuries.

Snow tubers can enjoy the excitement of sliding down an 800-foot slope. The five tubing runs are equipped with a separate rope tow, making the journey to the top of the hill as enjoyable as the trip down.

When natural snow conditions are sufficient, cross-country skiers have access to more than five miles of groomed trails.

Snowshoers also will find opportunities for fun.

The Whitetail Ridge Chalet provides an indoor respite.

In addition to providing a break from the cold, the Family area of the facility serves a variety of food and beverages and has large windows allowing views to the activities outdoors.

Lift tickets and on-site equipment rental are available at daily or seasonal rates. Whitetail Ridge facilities also are available at special rates for group functions.

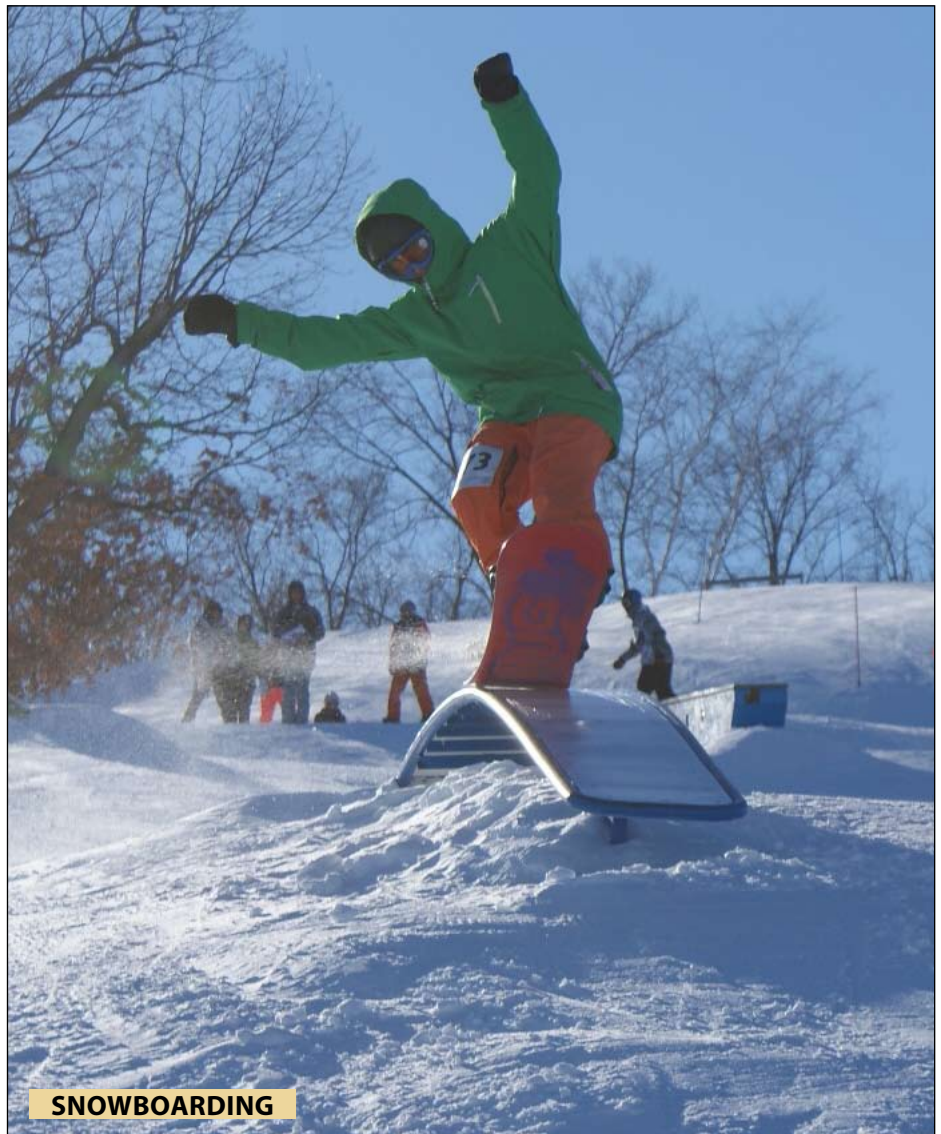

Paintball & Laser Tag

Tactics Paintball and Laser Tag also is located at Whitetail Ridge. Groups of five or more can be accommodated year-round. Reservations are required.

Whitetail Ridge Ski Area is located near Fort McCoy off Highway 21. Follow signs to the ski area.

The area also is accessible by snowmobile when the statewide groomed snowmobile trail network is open.
